Product Description

Manufacturers Supply Manual Quick Screen Changer For Extruder Flange Type Replaceable Filter Customizable

Extruder parts - manual screen changer

manual screen changer is an important accessory for filtering impurities in plastic extruders.

Attribute

Manual screen changers are usually made of ordinary steel and are low-cost, but may require downtime to change the filter. Manual screen changers may not undergo special heat treatment or sealing treatment, so there may be leakage during operation.

Function

Manual screen changers are mainly used to filter impurities in the plastic extrusion process to ensure product quality. It allows the operator to manually change the filter during the operation of the extruder, although this may require a short downtime.

Working principle

It has two filtering stations. When the impurities on the filter screen accumulate to a certain extent, when the screen needs to be changed, the filter station needs to be moved out of the main body by pulling the handle after deceleration or shutdown, and the waiting filtering station enters the main body of the screen changer.

Feature

The manual screen changer is easy to install and easy to operate.
The operating handle can be adjusted according to the location of the production site.
Unique rigid material, compensation seal design, long service life
Precise position when replacing the filter screen
Suitable for low-volume extrusion production of 90 and below

Application

Manual screen changers are suitable for low-end or low-capacity recycling pelletizing lines that do not require continuous production.

It can be used in different pelletizing processes such as underwater strand pelletizing, water ring pelletizing, hot cutting, etc. Manual screen changers are also suitable for small extruders or in cost-sensitive applications where the need for fast screen change is not a major consideration
